Nees: No, I

Wilson: Did you see a crescent wrench in the cab?

Nees: No.

Wilson: When was the last time that the pickup was cleaned out?

Nees: I would say about a week before or so.

Wilson: That would be inside and out? Washed and the inside of it cleaned?

Nees: Uh huh.

Wilson: Was there a tire iron in the box of the pickup?

Nees: Yeah.

Wilson: What kind? Can you just describe it?

Nees: It was just, you know, a regular tire iron.

Wilson: Was it an L shaped type thing?

Wilson: What color was it?

Nees: Silver

Wilson: And that was in the box of the pickup?

Wilson: The tool box that sat on top of the box?

Nees: Uh-huh.

Wilson: And it was underneath that?

Nees: Yeah.

Wilson: (How about garbage bags?)

Nees: She said at my trial there were none and Kim keep it clean of such things

Wilson: The keys to the pickup. Did you each have your own set of keys or was there just one set that everyone used?

Nees: My dad had one set and she had one set.

Nees: The keys that you used, would that have been Kim's or your dad's?

Nees: I think they were my dad's cause.

Wilson: What type of keys did she have on her key ring?

Nees: She had a house key, and the pickup key and the pickup had a seperate lock.

Wilson: So there would have been two pickup keys and a house key?
